THE removal of the cases of Jett and White, charged with the assassination of J. B. Marcum, James Cockrell and Dr. Cox, to the county of Morgan, which is in Judge Kinner's district, is what the people have all the time hoped for, and whether conviction or acquittal be the result of their trial by this change of venue, the verdict will be accepted by the people as a proper finding. Judge Kinner is one of the best equipped officials in Eastern Kentucky, and the Prosecuting Attorney, Math Redwine, a brother of Judge Redwine, of Jackson, is above the average as a prosecutor. Unless the witnesses, therefore, are spirited away, a fair and impartial trial will be held. The State at large, and in fact the States of the Union, are interested in this trial, and the result will be watched for with more than ordinary interest. Judge Redwine, in granting the change of venue, and Prosecutor Byrd, in asking for it, have displayed more stability than the people generally were willing to accord them. In brief, by this act they have redeemed themselves from the suspicion that they were the henchmen of a faction in Breathitt county. Every law abiding citizen will approve their course and give them the credit due.

MAYTOWN MISSIVES.

Mrs. Lucy Stephens is on the sick list.

Miss Lula McClure is very low with fever.

Lee Hall is now doing a fine business in carding wool.

B. M. Manning and wife are visiting J. A. Eaton and wife of this place.

Mrs. Sally McGuire, who has been ill for quite a while, remains very low.

Mrs. John Curtin called on Mrs. Phoebe Cox Sunday and reports her dangerously ill.

A number of young folks from our town attended the commencement Saturday night.

J. L. Henry and wife, of near West Liberty, spent a few days with their parents, B. F. Thomas and wife, this week.

Mrs. Gila Pieratt, who has been in your town under the treatment of Dr. Center, returned home Friday very much improved in health.

We are glad to note that Mrs. Lee Hall, who has been confined to her room for the past two years, is again able to be out. She had the pleasure of taking dinner Friday with her, the first that she had prepared for quite a while.

Rev. G. D. Combs, of West Liberty, came in yesterday to attend closing exercises at the Academy.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters present from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp Root Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SINCE the fact has been published that so many counties have not contributed to Kentucky's representation at the World's Fair in St. Louis next year, and only three have even closely approached their apportionments, citizens of those counties formerly in the inactive

UNIQUE PANTRY DOOR.

An Idea That Is Worth Imitating in Houses Where Things Have to Be "Crowded."

Not having any too much room in my pantry, which was originally a hall cupboard, I utilized the door in the manner shown. The smaller articles have tacks as hangers, for the larger ones small hooks are better. These can be bought for a few cents per dozen, and do not damage the wood as does a nail. The ring by which the chopping bowl hangs (on the lower part of the door), was formerly on a window shade, but was found to be just the thing for this purpose. The lids are held in place by one wire stretched across the panel to small tacks driven in the edge of the molding.

The little pocket above the stewpan holds my bread tickets, for living is high in this town, and we find that bread for two is cheaper bought than made. Above this is a sheet of cardboard, which I call my fruit list. I may tell of it in another article. Just below the gem pan is a little book made of writing paper, in which I write my tested recipes that have proved worth a second trial. Just below this a thick pad with pencil attached which receives jottings of things needed in the home. The cardboard sheet below the grater has a memorandum of weights and measures, which I find handy in following some recipes.

When the pantry door is closed all this is out of the way, and out of sight. I much prefer this plan to that of having everything in the kitchen. Of course, it would not do for a person who does not keep the black washed off the utensils. I rarely put any utensil save my teakettle over an open stove hole, so have no trouble in keeping everything immaculate.—American Agriculturist.

SUFFER FROM OVERSTUDY.

Woman at Mothers' Congress Declares Infantile Mind Is Being Cramped.

Mrs. James L. Hughes, of Toronto, in addressing the National Congress of Mothers the other afternoon at Detroit on "The Influence of the Kindergarten on Children and Home," condemned the practice of overstudy in educational institutions. "We are too greedy," she said, "to pour our knowledge into the minds of the young without realizing that the practice is injurious to the body. One-tenth of the facts crowded into the pupil's mind at school eventually slops over and is lost in later years. Let us not force the child to strive so strenuously for medals and honors."

"We ought to have a revision of studies and get together in conference parents and teachers who will eliminate those subjects that do not meet the present day requirements."

"Is there any preparation of the boy or girl in the educational institutions for fatherhood and motherhood? None at all. Teach the boy and girl when in each other's company to discuss bright and intellectual things and do away with sweetheart talk and frivolities."

# Sweeping Off the Cobwebs.

In the nursery tales the famous old woman who is credited with the desire to "sweep the cobwebs off the sky" was armed with a broom, and in the household realm the broom has long been recognized as the most effective medium for dusting the walls and sweeping the obnoxious cobweb from its lofty resting place, says the Brooklyn Eagle. An experienced housewife living in a country town, however, states that in this advanced age walls and woodwork are best dusted with a long-handled window brush covered with canton flannel. "The brush not being in such frequent demand as the broom," she says, "can be put away with its cover on, and is always ready for an emergency in the shape of a cobweb."

THE AUTOGRAPH QUILT.

An Easy Method of Raising Money for the Church or Other Philanthropic Purposes.

One method for raising money which we have tried in our church is the making of an autograph quilt. The blocks were of bleached muslin, 16 inches square. On each block a wheel-shaped piece of turkey red calico was sewed. The diameter of the wheel measured from the outside edge of the rim, was 14½ inches, the diameter measured from the inside of the rim was 11½ inches, the diameter of the hub measured from the outside rim was 5½ inches and the diameter of the inner circle of the hub 2½ inches. The illustration here-with shows the pattern of the block, greatly reduced. The wheels were first basted carefully on the muslin blocks, then the blocks were distributed among the ladies of the society with the request that they whip the edges of the wheels with red silk thread—which was given out with the blocks—and secure names enough to fill the white spaces in the wheel, the charge for each name to be ten cents. When all the blocks were finished and sewed together, a good peacock was chosen to write the names on each block as handed in, the name of the maker of the block being placed in the center and the other names between the spokes. This was done with indelible ink. We realized $58 in this way and sold the quilt for ten dollars, thus making $68.—Farmers' Review.

OLD BEAUX ARE DELIGHTED.

One Woman Who Has Not Relegated Their Virtues to the Musty Garret.

As a rule when a woman gets married she tries to pluck from her remembrance all thoughts of those who once paid court to her. Yet she can have a kindly feeling for them without in the slightest degree being untrue to the man who finally won her, says the Chicago Chronicle.

"I love my old beaux," said the woman who is bound to be cheerful. "They comfort me and make me forget unpleasantness. An old beau is very nice if he's at all presentable. My husband says hateful things to the effect that I'm ruinously extravagant, always wanting things, and he intimates that only an angel of his magnitude could manage to get along with me at all. Not so my old beaux. They say he's the luckiest of men and intimate that they would have been better men had Providence been thus kind to them. Even the married ones aren't so bad. When their wives sue for divorce or their babies get the measles they look volumes which seem to say that all would have been better had not an undeserving one borne off the prize. These unsolicited testimonials are as stimulating to me as old wine. It isn't the slightest use to repeat them to my husband, however. He simply reminds me that women are so easy that they're tiresome and that those 'nincompoops' don't have to pay the bills."

GIVES HIS WIFE A PRESENT.

Emperor William Bestows a Unique Bracelet Upon the Empress of Which She is Very Proud.

Emperor William has presented to his wife a singular bracelet, which the empress vows she will wear to her dying day. It consists of seven disks of solid California gold of the purest quality, each disk being about the size of a silver 25-cent piece, but three times as thick. The disks bear enameled portraits of the imperial children, each disk being inclosed in thick set diamonds. Hanging from the bracelet is a heart of solid gold, weighing about two ounces, on which is a portrait of the emperor.

Girls' Names in Japan.

It is not uncommon for a Jap girl to bear the name of a flower. On the other hand, however, many girls in Japan bear the names of some domestic utensil, as frying-pan or dust-brush. Doubtless this results from the custom common among some people of naming a child from the first object that strikes the eye after the little one has come into the world.

White Hands.

It sometimes happens that a girl manages to keep her hands white by letting her mother do all the house-work.—Chicago Daily News.

PROMINENT PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE PE-RU-NA.

Dr. M. C. Gee, of San Francisco, Says, "Peru-na is of Especial Benefit to Women."

Peruna is able to cure catarrh wherever it may be located by its direct action upon the mucous membranes. Catarrh means inflamed mucous membranes. Peruna acts at once to cleanse and invigorate the catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane no matter where it may occur in the body. Its action is the same on the mucous lining of the nose as on the mucous lining of the bowels. It cures the catarrhal inflammation wherever it may occur.

Dr. R. Robbins, Muskogee, I. T., writes:

"Peruna is the best medicine I know of for cough and to strengthen a weak stomach and to give appetite. Beside prescribing it for catarrh, I have ordered it for weak and debilitated people, and have not had a patient but said it helped him. It is an excellent medicine and fits so many cases."

"I have a large practice, and have a chance to prescribe your Peruna. I hope you may live long to do good to the sick and suffering."

We say Peruna cures catarrh. The people say Peruna cures catarrh. Prominent men and women all over the United States from Maine to California do not hesitate to come out in public print to say that Peruna is what it is recommended to be, an internal, systematic catarrh remedy that cures catarrh wherever it may be located.

Dr. M. C. Gee's Experience.

Dr. M. C. Gee is one of the physicians who endorse Peruna. In a letter written from 513 Jones street, San Francisco, Cal., he says:

"There is a general objection on the part of the practicing physician to advocate patent medicines. But when any one medicine cures hundreds of people, it demonstrates its own value and does not need the endorsement of the profession."

"Peruna has performed so many wonderful cures in San Francisco that I am convinced that it is a valuable remedy. I have frequently advised its use for women, as I find it insures regular and painless menstruation, cures leucorrhœa and ovarian troubles, and builds up the entire system. I also consider it one of the finest catarrh remedies I know of. I heartily endorse your medicine."—M. C. Gee, M. D.

Women are especially liable to pelvic catarrh, female weakness as it is commonly called. Especially in the first few weeks of warm weather do the disagreeable symptoms of female weakness make themselves apparent. In crisp, cold weather chronic sufferers with pelvic catarrh do not feel so persistently the debilitating effects of the drain upon the system, but at the approach of summer with its lassitude and tired feelings, the sufferer with pelvic catarrh feels the need of a strengthening tonic.

Peruna is not only the best spring tonic for such cases but if persisted in will effect a complete cure. Write for a copy of "Health and Beauty," written especially for women by Dr. Hartman. If you want to read of some cures also, write for a copy of "Facts and Faces." That will surely convince you that our claims are valid.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

ROBERT R.
ROBERTS M. D.

Robert R. Roberts, M. D., Washington, D. C., writes:

"Through my own experience as well as that of many of my friends and acquaintances who have been cured or relieved of catarrh by the use of Hartman's Peruna, I can confidently recommend it to those suffering from such disorders, and have no hesitation in prescribing it to my patients."—Robert R. Roberts.

A CONSTANTLY increasing number of physicians prescribe Peruna in their regular practice. It has proven its merits so thoroughly that even the doctors have overcome their prejudice against so-called patent medicines and recommend it to their patients.

Peruna occupies a unique position in medical science. It is the only internal systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession today. Catarrh, as every one will admit, is the cause of one-half the diseases which afflict mankind. Catarrh and catarrhal diseases afflict one-half of the people of United States. F. H. Brand, M. D., of Moline, Ill., uses Peruna in his practice. The following case is an example of the success he has through the use of Peruna for catarrh.

Dr. Brand says: "Mrs. C., age 28, had been a sufferer from catarrh for the past seven years; could not hear plainly and had watery eyes. She came to me almost a physical wreck. She had tried the Copeland cures and various other so-called specialists, and had derived no benefit from them. She told me she did not want to spend any more money on medicines unless I could assure her relief.

"I put her on Peruna and told her to come back in two weeks. The effects were wonderful. The east-down looks she had when I first saw her had left her and a smile adorned her face. She told me she felt a different woman. Her hearing was improved and her eyes did not trouble her any more.

"This is only one case of the many I have treated with your valuable medicine."—F. H. Brand, M. D.

THE FARMING WORLD

A LITTLE GREENHOUSE.

Just the Thing for Home Gardeners Who Delight in Watching Plant Life Development.

For propagating cuttings, take a box 12 inches square and five inches deep, inside measure. A couple of drainage holes should be made in the bottom. Around the sides of the box place four 10x12 inch panes of glass, and fill in, first with a layer of drainage material, preferably charcoal, one inch deep; then a bit of gravel, and on top of this at least three inches of clean, gritty sand, not too fine. Another pane of glass, 12x14 inches, rests on the top, as shown in the cut.

Tender plants such as geraniums, zinnias, begonias and others, root off quickly. Woody cuttings require more care. For instance, weigela, forsythia, honeysuckle, etc., should have cuttings taken from well ripened wood in July or August. Cut to a length containing two pairs of leaves. Remove the lower pair and with a sharp blade make a clean cut right at the joint. Many woody plants will not form a callus except when cut at this point. Leave the stem projecting a little above the upper pair of leaves, so it may not dry back too far and injure the buds. Then the two leaves left should have the outer half of the blades removed.

With roses, or other shrubs where the leaves are not in pairs, the same principle holds. Choose the wood which has bloomed and cut to include four or five joints, always making the lower cut at a joint. Remove the lowest two leaves and cut back the others. They should be pressed firmly in the sand, kept moist and given plenty of sunlight.—Orange Judd Farmer.

SPRAYING AND DUSTING.

Work in the Apple Orchard That Must Be Done Early in the Season or Not at All.

When the petals fall from the apple, the codling moth is on hand to lay her eggs; the calyx is then wide open, and the young caterpillars will seek the calyx for their first meal; later this calyx will close up tightly and if poison can be introduced before this closing it will be better retained, says Prof. F. M. Webster. The whole object of a lifetime with these moths is to deposit their eggs, and they will do this, largely at least, as soon as the bloom falls. Then is the time to spray, and not after the other work is over and the eggs laid and hatched and the young worms making their way into the young apples, and the calyx of those not affected so closed over as to prevent the free admission of the spray. The young caterpillars are minute and very hungry, easily killed by poisons about this time, but let them alone until they are one-half to two-thirds grown, and they seem to thrive on poisons. The potatoes are just coming out of the ground; there are a few beetles only and but little plant to treat. Get an old fruit can, punch fine holes in one end and fix a broom-handle to the other so as to hold the can vertically over the young plants, and tapping it lightly with a light stick, sift a mixture of one pound of paris green and ten pounds of a low grade of flour directly on the surface, where it is needed and where it will adhere to the leaves. This is not spraying, but it will kill off the old beetles that first appear, or at least many of them, before they lay their eggs.

Manure on Sugar Beets.

The common teaching is that sugar beets are injured in quality by stable manure applied the same season that the beets are sown. That this is not true, at least not on certain soils in New York, is proved in bulletin No. 205 of the station at Geneva. Tests were made for four years—on two farms in widely separated localities for one season—with results uniformly favoring rather than opposing the use of the stable manure. The yields were better than with liberal applications of commercial fertilizers; and the percentage of sugar and coefficient of purity of the juice were higher with the manured beets than with those without manure or those receiving commercial fertilizer.

Every farmer, and especially the dairy farmer, should raise clover, both to maintain the fertility of his soil and supply one of the most valuable foods for his animals.

CAUSE OF SOUR MILK.

Careless Milking and Loose Methods of Handling Are the Principal Sources of Loss.

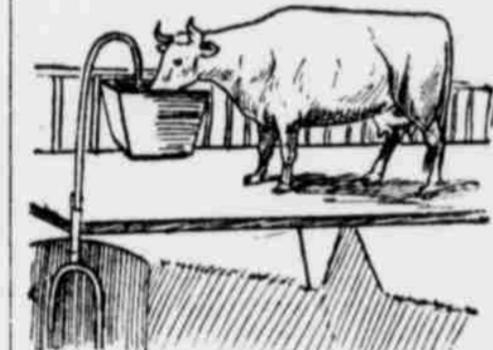

Milk sours because in the process of growth and multiplication of the bacteria the milk sugar is changed to lactic acid. When there is enough acid present to be apparent to the taste the milk is said to be sour. Bacteria, like corn or any higher food, plants require food, moisture and sufficient heat in order to grow and multiply. Milk has the necessary moisture, is a perfect food and is usually at the right temperature for rapid growth of bacteria.

Since the keeping quality of milk bears a direct relation to the bacteria which gain access, it is important to prevent their getting into the milk. The udder and adjacent parts of the body which are much shaken during milking is one of the chief sources of infection, while the dust of the stable, the hands and clothes of the milker together with the pails and cans used are only slightly less important sources. Experiments show that milking in a stable where the circulation of air can carry the dust out; wiping the udder with a damp cloth, and scalding utensils with live steam or boiling water, will not only reduce the bacterial content, but increases the keeping quality of the milk materially. A covered milk pail, with only a small opening to milk into, reduced the number of germs falling into the pail one-fourth as compared with a common pail, and the milk kept sweet 20 hours longer. Immediately cooling after milking is next in importance. Milk allowed to stand two hours without cooling contained 23 times as many germs as when milking was finished, while that which was cooled to 54 degrees, only had four times as many at the end of two hours. This emphasizes the importance of quick and thorough cooling.—Midland Farmer.

VALUABLE MECHANISM.

It Is Designed to Provide Pure and Cool Water for Stock at Every Drink.

Some people seem to have formed the idea that any kind of food is good enough for animals and any kind of water will do for them to drink, being only intent on filling them with something which will pass for food and drink. But why should a cow or horse enjoy the taste of musty hay and vitiated water, when human beings are only satisfied with the purest food-stuffs and drinks to be had? There is no doubt that it is a common practice with some farmers to fill up the PURE WATER AT EVERY DRINK. troughs in the morning and let the water stand until the animals get thirsty and are compelled to drink. Even if the water were cool and pure when first drawn, the heat of the sun soon renders it warm and tasteless. A South Dakota man has succeeded in designing a mechanism which will draw fresh water every time an animal wants a drink, and which will meet the requirements of a large herd or a single animal with equal facility, while at the same time relieving the farmer of the necessity of pumping the supply every day. This invention is nothing more than a tilting platform, on which the animals are compelled to walk every time they shake their thirst, and it is an easy matter to connect one end of this platform with the plunger of a pump, having a cylinder large enough to draw a large quantity of water under the impetus of the animal's weight. Under the pressure of the plunger moving in the cylinder the water is forced to flow through the pipe into the trough, the platform sinking gradually as the cylinder empties.—Louisville Courier Journal.

A Little Business Hint.

A blank book for addresses will be found invaluable to every farmer. Copy into it the post office address of all parties with whom you do business at any time, the names of persons or dealers you read or hear about that you may want to communicate with in the future, or other addresses that it may be handy for you to have for reference. Leave a blank line or two under each entry for corrections or memoranda. Such book can be kept with but little trouble, and will be of great value and convenience. One of the children can keep it for you.—Farm and Home.

The Type and the Feed.

No hog, beef steer or milch cow can respond to liberal feeding unless the conformation or type is such as to favor production of the special item for which it is fed. Every feeder should know the several types of live stock at a glance.

JUDGE H. F. PIERATT.

On the floor plan of Kentucky's mineral exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition next year petroleum occupies the center, 162 square feet having been given it. There is no development in Kentucky during recent years so marked as that of the oil districts, and the display at the World's Fair is to be in keeping with this wonderful progress. The oil companies of the State, recognizing this fact, have begun to subscribe to the fund being raised by the Kentucky Exhibit Association to carry forward the work. Contributions to date have been as follows: Triple State Natural Gas and Oil Co., Ashland, $50; Great Northern Oil Co., Detroit, Mich., $100; J. J. Hoblitzell, Barboursville, $100. The oil exhibit will be one of the most expensive collected by the association, all of the crude oil having to be sent out of the State for refining, hence other oil producers are expected to share the burden of the expense with those that have subscribed.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. L. Newson, Decatur, Ala.: "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered." For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. For sale by all druggists.

A Kilfing in the County.

James Lacy and Willie Hobbs, who were farming together on Gilmore creek, on Tuesday fell out about the management of a horse which Lacy was plowing, but which belonged to Hobbs, and the result was that Hobbs threw a rock and killed Lacy, who was his half brother. Dr. Center, who was called to see Lacy just before he died, gives us the following particulars: Lacy was plowing Hobbs' horse, which was a contrary animal, and he got to throwing rocks at him. George Hobbs and wife and Willie Hobbs were hoeing at the time, along with Lacy's wife. At dinner Lacy's wife told him what Hobbs had said about his treatment of the horse. This incensed Lacy, and he refused to plow. Hobbs took his place, and in turn threw rocks at the horse. This caused Hobbs to say something that incensed Lacy, who called Hobbs a liar. Hobbs then picked up a rock and struck him, bursting his skull. When the doctor arrived he was unconscious, and died within 30 minutes.

Tired Mothers.

It's hard work to take care of children and to cook, sweep, wash, sew and mend besides. Tired mothers should take Hood's Sarsaparilla—it refreshes the blood, improves the appetite, assures restful sleep.

A Printer Visitor.

Mr Cunningham, of the Jackson Hustler, was among the visitors here from Jackson Monday. Indeed, he was one of the team, his position being that of catcher, and right well did he fill his part until an accident compelled him to put in another man. Mr. Cunningham visited THE HERALD office in company with a young Mr. Hall, and was very much surprised to find us so well equipped. He said he had no idea that such an up-to-date establishment was to be found in the mountains. Mr. Cunningham has been with The Hustler for six or seven years, and like the editor of this paper, has become so much attached to the mountain people that he feels more at home here than on his native blue-grass.

Ladies and Children Invited.

All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups, cathartics, etc., are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not purge the system. Even a double dose will not gripe, weaken or sicken; many people call them the Easy Pill. W. H. Howell, Houston, Texas, says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc. Bob Moore, Lafayette, Ind., says all others gripe and sicken, while DeWitt's Little Early Risers do their work well and easy. Sold by all druggists.

The Kentucky Exhibit Association has received for free distribution 1,000 copies of the New York World's St. Louis Exposition Dedication Number, and they will be furnished all persons asking for them. Write for a copy. The illustrations as well as the text are worthy the inspection of any one.

Mrs. Fred Unrath,
President Country Club, Benton Harbor, Mich.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

Misses Lizzie and Annie Hylton, and Artie Dye, of Maytown, three charming young ladies of sixteen sweet summers, paid THE HERALD office a very pleasant call on Tuesday, and their presence so electrified the gentlemanly type slinger that he was momentarily paralyzed.

Dick McIlvain and wife, of Rothwell, arrived here Sunday from Amyx Spring, in Morgan county, and are now at Swango spring, where Mrs. McIlvain is drinking the water for her health, which has been quite poor for some time.

Shot Last Friday.

Morton Higgins, a colored lad of this place, was accidentally shot by his cousin, Elvin Higgins, on the Joe Wilson farm, above Lee City, last Friday, and is in a dangerous condition. He was shot with a pistol, 22 caliber, the bullet entering just below the lower point of the left shoulder blade and coming out just below the heart. The boys were walking along a slanting rock when the boy in the rear, who had a pistol gripped in his hand, stumbled his toe, and falling, discharged the weapon. Dr. F. C. Bakes, of this place, was summoned by phone and dressed the wound, and Dr. Ben Nickell was also present. The boy does not seem to suffer, and Dr. Bakes says if no complications arise he may recover, though the chances are against him.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland, Bentonville, Va., serves as an example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctorred all the time without being benefited. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip, Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c. and $1.00.

The Faith That Moves Mountains

By CHARLES EUGENE BANKS

(Copyright, 1880, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

WHAT are your churches to me?" she cried, passionately. "Sister Cecilia, from childhood I have heard these tales of love and penitence until I know them all by heart. I used to find comfort in them, but that was before I knew what real sorrow was."

She was a slight young girl, not above 16, with clear, delicate features, and olive complexion, an abundance of hair that swept back from a full forehead like the waves of a clouded sea. She seemed little more than a child, and yet the light that shone in her large dark eyes spoke of passion, and grief and a woman's woes.

"My dear child," replied the Sister, "you do not understand the teachings of the church. It is not of earthly love the Gospels speak, but of that spiritual love that passeth all understanding. Not of that love the Saviour died that all men might understand and be saved."

"I know, I know," cried the girl, "but it is not of Heaven I am thinking, but of him, Pierre, the artist, who has gone and left me no word; of Pierre whom I love better than life; Pierre for whom I have given up all, even the church."

The Sister crossed herself devoutly but the girl continued passionately:

"It is months since I have entered the church doors. When Pierre came into my life everything else was swept out of it. I knew no other world but the one he made for me. I never questioned his sincerity. I never doubted his love. I was a child and he made me a woman. And now he is gone and I am alone, alone."

"The man was not of our world," said the Sister, with some show of severity, "and you do wrong to think of him."

"I cannot help it. I try to think of him as being cruel and wicked, to hate him for what he has made me suffer, but I cannot do it. Night and day I hear only his voice. Oh, something must have happened to him, or he would come back to me."

"Such faith deserves to be rewarded," said the Sister, moved by the girl's sincerity, "you may be right. Let us not despair. But should he never return, there is One who never forsakes, who is ever ready to comfort and bless. To-morrow morning the Easter bells will ring to recall the scene of His death and resurrection. So may we all triumph over sorrow and the grave if we will but trust in Him."

The words and manner of the Sister stirred the girl strangely. Looking into the tranquil eyes of the holy woman she felt a wave of peace throughout her whole being. The flush died out of her cheeks, the sob died in her throat, and going to Sister Cecilia she put her arms about her saying quietly:

"I know what you say is true, even though I rebel against the teaching of the church. They who are of it not you, sweet Sister, but the others, the neighbors, even my mother, have been so harsh and cruel, have said such bitter things of me that I could not believe in the religion they professed. But I feel I must tell my sorrow to some one or I should die. And so I come to you who are always gentle and kind."

"You did right, Marie, and I will do all I can to help you. Ah, the tears, the bitter tears that love has wrung from confiding hearts. But who shall say that unselfish devotion and sacrifice in the manner of love shall find harsh judgment in the eyes of Him who taught us love is the greatest of all the virtues, the very soul of life."

The Sister's words were like a prayer and a benediction and Marie went away feeling greatly comforted. She hurried through the districts that led to her mother's shop and, climbing the narrow stairway that led to her own little room, fell on her knees before the Madonna praying earnestly for forgiveness and guidance.

That night as she slept the room seemed to be slowly filled with a soft radiance and the Madonna, coming down from the wall, stood at her side with hands outstretched above her while she repeated softly:

"There is no death, the flowers say: In faith we hide our souls away. While tempests desolate the earth, And patient wait the promised birth."

The Southwind chants, there is no death, I come, and Winter is a breath; Against his falling walls I set The snowdrop and the violet.

Glad prophets of the life to be! A kindred spark abides in thee, That, like the wind, no tether knows, And yet is comrade to the rose.

The earth thy mother is, her breast Thy comfort, shield and final rest, There sheltered from the storms thou'll ride.

The coming of the Easter tide.

It was morning when Marie awoke and the air was filled with the chimes of many bells. The dream was still vivid in her mind and, involuntarily she glanced at the wall where the picture of the Madonna hung. It was in its place, but she could not escape the thought that the scene which was so vivid in her mind had really been enacted. The hour for morning service was approaching and she felt a sudden desire to sit once more with the congregation in the holy silence, to join in the responses, and to hear the music of the familiar songs. For months she had not entered the church doors, but her talk with Sister Cecilia and the vision of the Madonna had decided her to try once more the consolation of religion.

When Marie came out upon the street that bright Easter morning she found Sister Cecilia already at the door.

"I came for you," said the Sister, simply.

"I am ready, Sister Cecilia," replied Marie with equal simplicity. "I had such a beautiful dream last night, and I think—yes, I know I had already decided—"

"To go to church?"

"Yes."

"It must have been a good dream, indeed."

"It was a message from the Madonna. She told me that which made me understand."

They were walking rapidly toward the church. As they were about to turn a corner of the street that led up to the edifice a hearty voice cried out: "Marie! Why do you run away from me?" and turning they saw Pierre hurrying to overtake them.

"Pierre! Pierre!" murmured the girl, pale and trembling.

"Pierre, that was Jim Bradford that is. Don't be frightened at the change, little sweetheart. A sombrero, a corduroy jacket and the privilege of knocking a man down without the fear of having to apologize for sailing under false colors suits me better than playing the role of an artist. But the praise was worth the trouble a thousand times over. Give me your hands, little girl, and say that you forgive me."

Marie would have thrown herself into the arms of her lover, but Sister Cecilia interposed. "Tell me," she said, "before you lead this poor child into deeper trouble; how can you be so bold and heartless. You acknowledge to having won her affections under a false name, you left her for weeks to the scorn of her associates, weeping her heart out for love of you, and then come back expecting her to believe you honest."

"All in time, good Sister. You see I had a plainman's dread of being loved for my few miles square of pasture, and the cattle that kept the grass trimmed, rather than for myself. So I became a poor artist and went seeking a wife. I believed I had found her in Marie, but there was one more test; how far would her trust in me go. I went away, but not so far that I could not keep track of what was going on here. She has proved herself an angel. It wrenches my heart to see her sorrow, but for every moment of anguish I have caused her she shall have a thousand glad ones. What do you say, little girl; am I to be forgiven?"

"I have never doubted you, as the good Sister here will tell you. Besides, you know it is Easter morning. Don't you hear the bells over there ringing out the proclamation? 'I am the resurrection and the life, and whosoever believeth on me, though he were dead, yet shall he live again.' I believed in you, and here you are."

She gave him her hands. For a moment they stood looking into each other's eyes. Then with the Sister walking with bowed head before them they entered the door of the church.

No Crash.

"Yes," replied Low Comedy, "and there might have been a horrible panic but for one thing."

"What was that?"

PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL.

Official Washington does not take kindly to the automobile and very few persons in the executive or diplomatic service are seen in vehicles other than carriages. The president is too fond of horses ever to take up the craze. He has always shown a preference for surreys and seldom drives out of town in any other kind of vehicle.

Lord Russell, of Killowen, used to relate this story: "I remember a case in which a very innocent remark of my own elicited the fact of a previous conviction. A prisoner was addressing the jury very effectively in his own behalf, but he spoke in a low voice, and, not hearing some of his observations, I said: 'What did you say?' What was your last sentence?" "Six months, my lord," he replied." It was Lord Russell who in reply to the question "What is the extreme penalty for bigamy?" uttered this classic: "Two mothers-in-law."

The best dressed men in New York are the Wall streeters. There is one young member of the stock exchange who is famous for his clothes. He has a wardrobe in his private office and changes his suit three times a day—at 10, at noon and at 3 o'clock. A busy session on the floor will wreck any suit. Most of the brokers wear an old office coat in the shuffle and turmoil and there is scarcely an active member but has an extra pair of trousers to put on after the close of business. Scores of little tailors in the financial district make a good living pressing trousers at 50 cents a pair.

The profession of bridesmaid seems to be growing in New York. For some time it has been the habit at weddings in that city to pay bridesmaids. At a recent wedding there were no fewer than 15 bridesmaids, who were all punctually paid. Besides the beautiful dresses given by the bride's father they each received $25 for appearing in the wedding train. There are young ladies who accept as much as $100 for their office of honor. One girl who is much sought after for her beauty has appeared as bridesmaid at more than 200 weddings and has in a short time amassed quite a goodly sum besides uttering many costly presents.

A story comes from Washington that a Chicago woman has been using the mails in an improper way. Postmaster General Payne ordered that her letters be excluded from the mails, whereupon the fair Chicagoan wrote asking him for a personal hearing so that her side of the case could be presented. "I feel sure," she wrote, "that if I could get a chance to look straight into your beautiful brown eyes you would hear my story." Mr. Payne by the way of a joke wrote on a blank leaf of the letter: "Respectfully referred to the secretary of war for advice" and sent it over to Mr. Root. The latter immediately returned it with this endorsement: "Risk one eye. Elihu Root."

After Four Months in Bed.

Powersville, Ky., April 27th.—Mrs. J. J. Monson, who has been ill for over eight years, says:

"Yes, it is truly wonderful. I am 35 years of age and for the last eight years I have suffered with acute Kidney trouble.

"I tried all the doctors within reach and many other medicines, but got no relief till I used that new remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I was confined to my bed for four months this winter and had such a pain in my side I couldn't get a good breath. I had smothering spells, was light-headed and had given up all hope, for I didn't think I could live long.

"After I had taken a few of Dodd's Kidney Pills I began to improve and I kept on till now, as you can see. I am well.

"I have been up and down doing my own work for some time now and haven't felt pain or weakness since.

"I praise the Lord for my wonderful restoration to health and will always recommend Dodd's Kidney Pills."

The Trout Season Open in Wisconsin.

The legal season for brook trout fishing in Wisconsin opened April 15th, under most advantageous conditions. The season promises to be one of the most satisfactory in recent years, over ten million fish having been planted two, three and four years since by the State Fish Commission, in the streams reached by the Chicago & North-Western Railway.

The fish and game laws have been well enforced during the past year and the weather conditions are reported to be such as to indicate an early season and good sport.

HARD TO BEAR.

When the back aches and pains so badly, can't work—can't rest—can't sleep—can't eat—it's hard to bear. Thousands of aching backs have been relieved and cured. People are learning that backache pains come from disordered kidneys, that Doan's Kidney Pills cure every Kidney Ill—cure Bladder troubles, urinary derangements, Dropsey, Diabetes, Bright's disease.

Read this testimony to the merit of the greatest of Kidney specifics: J. W. Walls, Superintendent of Streets of Lebanon, Kentucky, living on East Main Street in that city, says:

"With my nightly rest broken, owing to irregularities of the kidneys, suffering intensely from severe pains in the small of my back and through the kidneys, and annoyed by painful passages of abnormal secretions, life was anything but pleasant for me. No amount of doctoring relieved this condition, and for the reason that nothing seemed to give me even temporary relief, I became about discouraged. One day I noticed in the newspapers the case of a man who was afflicted as I was and was cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. His words of praise for this remedy were so sincere that on the strength of his statement I went to the Hugh Murray Drug Co.'s store and got a box. I found that the medicine was exactly as powerful a kidney remedy as represented. I experienced quick and lasting relief. Doan's Kidney pills will prove a blessing to all sufferers from kidney disorders who will give them a fair trial."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Walls will be mailed to any part of the United States on application. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists; price 50 cents per box.

CASTLE PINCKNEY IN CHARLESTON HARBOR.
Find Gen. Beauregard.

On September 15, 1862, Gen. P. G. T. Beauregard was assigned to the command of the confederate garrison at Charleston, S. C., relieving Gen. J. C. Pemberton. In and out of the port of Charleston passed more confederate blockade runners than at any other southern port, and the Washington government were making elaborate preparations to capture the place, though the campaign did not begin until April 7, 1862, when Dupont's squadron of the federal navy was repulsed by the confederate forts. A combined land and naval attack was begun on July 10, and from that time until the war was virtually over there raged about the beleaguered city almost an incessant battle. It finally fell before Sherman's advancing army, and was occupied by federal troops on February 18, 1865.

INFANCY OF WILD THINGS.

PENNSYLVANIA WOODSMAN TELLS ABOUT BEAR CUBS AND THE DOE'S CARE OF HER FAWN.

"Bear cubs are tiny creatures at birth, often no longer than rats," said an observant hemlock-belt woodsman, according to the New York Sun. "A friend of mine had one that, although alive and lively when he found it with its mother, which he had thoughtlessly killed, was less than four inches long."

"It was perfectly formed, but soon died, as bear cubs are sure to do if they are less than a month old when taken from their mothers. Cubs grow very fast in nature, and when they appear in the spring with their mothers they are as big as half-grown lambs."

"I know many an old hunter who not only will not kill she bears that have cubs, but will take every measure to protect them. This is from no prompting of humanity, however. It is simply with an eye out for the main chance in the future, when these cubs have grown to bears, fat and in fine fur."

"A motherless bear cub is poor property, and a bear mother nursing her young is of no use either as meat or for fur. But her cubs in a year will be worth from $10 to $15 apiece, and she will herself be worth more than that by the time she is ready to hole up the next winter."

"It is not an uncommon thing for a bear to have four cubs at a birth. I have heard of five at a birth. Three are common, two more common, but one may be counted on as being the most common."

"The instance of five bear cubs at a birth I can't vouch for from personal knowledge, although I saw the old bear, and the man who killed her had five cubs, which he declared were all with her when he shot her. The man was known as a person of veracity, but I have my own ideas about a man who could find it in his heart to kill a bear that had five helpless little cubs at her side. But that doesn't make him out a liar."

"I have personal knowledge, nevertheless, of a bear that had eight cubs with her when I came across her in the woods, and she was caring for them all with motherly tenderness. That was after I had heard of the one with five cubs, and I felt that I had come to a conclusion too hasty as to the veracity of the man who had exhibited them."

"This bear with eight cubs was such an extraordinary and unheard-of thing that I resolved to capture the whole family alive if I could. When the old bear saw me she withdrew, with a great show of fierceness, to the refuge of a fallen tree top, hustling the cubs along in advance of her."

"While reconnoitering to see how it might be possible for me to carry out my designs on the bear fairly, I stumbled over a dead bear only a few rods from where the other one and the eight cubs had their quarters. It was a big bear, and she had had her cubs."

"What killed her I do not know, but I thought I had a clear explanation of the other bear's remarkable family. She had four cubs of her own, and, having come across the orphaned cubs whining on the dead body of their mother, she had adopted them and was rearing them with her own. I made no further effort to capture that bear family, and the live she bear undoubtedly dined on the carcass of the dead mother of her foster cubs."

"It is curious about fawns and their mother. A fawn when first born is for some hours unable to stand. The doe does not remain beside it, but paces slowly around at a considerable distance."

"Every little while she gives a tremulous, low, bleating call. At the sound the fawn lifts its head and tries to struggle to its feet."

"Should the doe scent danger, such as the approach of some one in the woods, she runs away in a straight line, but laggingly and haltingly, as though she were badly hurt. When she is satisfied that she has turned the enemy far enough away, she gives three great flying leaps, which quickly take her out of sight, and she returns speedily to her helpless young."

"If she is not disturbed she keeps up the pacing about and the bleating until she sees the fawn able to rise and keep its feet. Then she prances daintily away in a straight line, choosing always the easiest thoroughfare."

"As she goes she calls faintly, stopping every few yards to look over her shoulder to see that the fawn is following. She conducts the little one to a hiding place, and she can and does hide her fawn from sight, although one may be almost upon it, as absolutely as the hen pheasant clucks her brood into concealment at a sign of danger."

Useful Information.

Here is a familiar one: When the boots become water soaked, fill them with oats or barley so they will not shrink in drying. When very thirsty and only a small amount of water is at hand, drink it with a spoon or a canteen. It will do as much good as when taken in large mouthfuls. Boil putrid water in charcoal before drinking. Indians purify all waters by plunging hot irons and rocks into them. When an Indian is cold he builds a small fire and huddles over it; a white man builds a big fire and cannot get near it. When you wish to roll up your shirt sleeves do not turn the cuffs inside out, but turn them inward or under and they will remain tucked up without being touched. When you want to climb a tree unite the feet with a dampened towel or raveled rope so that their distance apart shall be about two-thirds the diameter of the trunk.—N. Y. Press.

NEWEST MILLINERY IDEAS.

Some of the Shapes in Hats That Are Just Now Filling the Feminine Fancy.

Among the many hat shapes in vogue none have the brim turned up at the back, says the Millinery Trade Review. If the brim is wide behind, it is turned down over the nape of the neck, but many—and perhaps the majority—are cut off very short at the back, where they will often be trimmed with a fall of lace, a pendant feather or drooping sprays of flowers. It is generally considered that a more youthful appearance is attained when such additions are omitted—a large knot of hair filling in the vacant space perfectly. However, this is merely a matter of personal appreciation; milliners are rather prone to favor hats trimmed at the back—perhaps because they show off better in the hand. Hats turned up at the side frequently have this portion of the brim wider; others that jut forward or that turn down or up over the brow have the brim much wider in front.

Most of the newest toques are large with the turban effect exaggerated in front and at the sides and a decided slope at the back. Many are made with the top—it can hardly be called a crown—on a level with the upper edge of the brim. Others constructed out of a round or heart-shaped plateau are rolled up high at the front and at the sides. Besides these there is a variety of fanciful shapes that are dubbed indifferently toques or small hats.

Among these may be noted some new Louis XV. tricornes, some built up of a plateau of which are caught up in three places by ribbons; others with a regular blocked crown and the brim slanting upwards from it at an acute angle.

A natty little tricorne of the latter shape is made of closely-plaited champagne-colored straw trimmed around the edge of the brim and around the crown with three rows of green straw closely plaited. In the indent on the left side are two narrow pointed black couteaux tipped with green, fastened by a rosette of the green braids. There is a great fancy for this sort of quill, just now; they are called "coutoix diable" because somewhat similar to those which decorate the cap of Mephistopheles.

The highly ornamental character of much of the straw provided is a trimming in itself.

For a big turban toque made of wide, dark blue, fancy straw braids, overlaid with thick piping of plain straw, the only trimming is a pair of the before-mentioned "coutoix diable," also dark blue and shaded into gray and dipped with scarlet, placed rather forward against the brim. Some medium-sized hats are built up of two plateaux of heart shape, made of wide fancy chip braids, to one side of which hang straw balls—tassels, almost exactly resembling hops. There is an interval of two inches between each tassel. This arrangement is most effective in such colors as pale nut brown, light gray-blues and blue-greens, further trimmed with a large bow of satin to match, put on at the back. Small braids and plaited and gaufré braids made up in a variety of ways; the first, arranged so that each row of braids lap over the other, is very ornamental.

The others may also only be sewn down at one side when lace edging or a plaiting of velvet ribbon is sewn on the overlapping edge.

Red or foliage-green plaited braids edged with black lace make up charming hat and toque shapes, as likewise white or light-colored braids edged with cream lace. A good deal is done by combining braids of several shades.

ART IN ARCHITECTURE

DESIGNED AND WRITTEN ESPECIALLY FOR THIS PAPER

THIS neat and well-arranged eight-room residence can be erected upon a stone foundation for $2,800. The sizes of rooms are as follows:

Parlor, 14 by 15 feet; living room, 15 by 16 feet; dining-room, 11 by 16 feet; kitchen 9½ by 12½ feet; chambers, 14 by 14½ feet, 14 by 14½ feet, 10½ by 12 feet and 8 by 9 feet; den, 7 by 7 feet; reception hall, 11 by 11½ kitchen, open into each other through sliding doors, and have a hard wood border three feet wide all around the rooms.

All trim on first and second floors is of pine for painting. The front stairs will also be of pine, and will be finished in white enamel. Reception hall, parlor and living room are finished in white enamel. Dining-room feet; pantry, 5 by 6 feet; bathroom, 5 by 8 feet; loft, 9½ by 12½ feet.

All chambers have closets, and there are fireplaces in four rooms, as shown on plans.

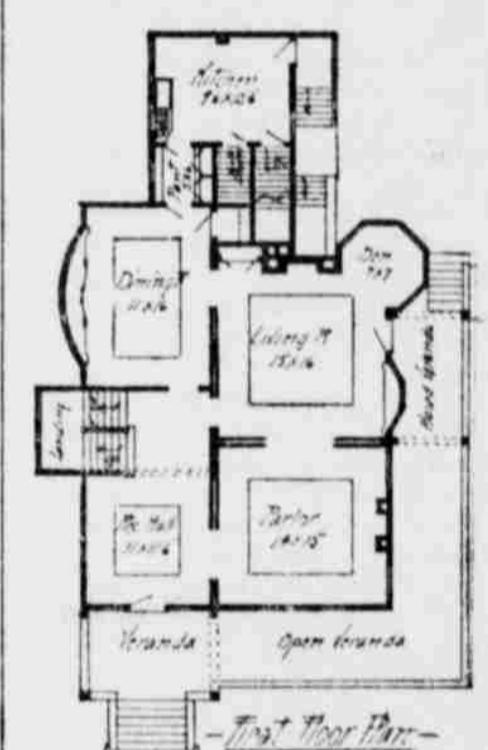

The living room has a number of good features, such as a cozy window seat, den, book case and a seven-foot fireplace.

The dining-room has a seat with windows at the back of it, also a china closet and large pantry with glass doors in dish cupboard. The stairway to basement and second floor, rear, leads up from kitchen.

Plastering is two-coat work. Exterior painting three-coat work. Roof stained a light red. Exterior of house a white color. All material to be of a good kind, and all work done in a first-class manner.

The owner will furnish the shelf hardware, mantels and bathroom fixtures, heating and gas fixtures.

-First Floor Plan-

The height of the basement is 7 feet, first story, 9 1/2 feet and second story 9 feet. American glass throughout, excepting in front and side doors, and in large window in front chamber; these are to be of plate glass.

The chimneys that show above the roof must be faced with a good red press brick.

MADE MILLIONS IN OLD AGE.

Remarkable Career of the Man Who Erected the First Plate Glass Factory in This Country.

This city is the cradle of the plate glass industry of the United States, says an Albany (Ind.) special to the Indianapolis Sentinel. The first polished plate glass manufactured in the country is still in use in the front window of a New Albany clothing store. There are two plates each about 6x14. Capt. John R. Ford, who erected here the first factory in the United States for the manufacture of polished plate glass, and whose name is a household word throughout southern Indiana, is still living at 91 years of age at Tarentum, Pa., says a recent report.

He came originally from Kentucky, and located at Greenville, near here. He was a "natural born" inventor and invented and manufactured a machine for chopping straw. He soon moved to New Albany, where he built steamboats. His attention was attracted by a little factory at Lenox, Mass., which was manufacturing a crude form of rough plate glass for skylights. He set his wits to work and designed the first machinery for the manufacture of polished plate glass. This machinery was made at New Albany foundries. He interested his cousin, Washington C. De Pauw, a man of large means, and they operated the first plate glass-manufactory, which was a huge success, but they could not agree as to business policy, and Ford sold his interest to De Pauw. Ford then established factories at Louisville and Jeffersonville, which failed.

He was the first man in the United States to discover that natural gas could be used as fuel for manufacturing purposes. He built his factory at Tarentum alongside a coal bed, expecting to use it for fuel. His workmen in making soundings, discovered gas, and he was not long in harnessing the new fuel and making it do his work. In his long career of large manufacturing endeavors he never had a strike, because he always paid the highest wages that could be paid in the business. It is difficult for New Albany people to realize that the old man who left here without a penny, borrowing money to buy his railroad ticket, is now a multi-millionaire. He is afflicted with cancer, which will soon end his career. He has built at Greenville, Ind., his old home, one of the finest Methodist churches in the state, and his other bequests within the last two years amount to $500,000.

Her Little Hint.

COMMENCEMENT

Exercises at Pearre Hall—Award of Diplomas, Etc.

Notwithstanding the deluge of rain, a fair crowd assembled in Pearre Hall Friday night, May 29th, to witness the closing exercises of the commercial department. After the invocation a piano duet was pleasingly rendered by Robert Cord and Miss Emma Sleet.

Mr. Leroy Boggs then spoke on the "Commercial Outlook of the Mountains." His oration was a vivid presentation of the future possibilities of Eastern Kentucky.

The principal speaker of the evening was Prof. Milton Elliott, of Kentucky University, in his address on "Preparation." Prof. Elliott combatted the ancient error that would make a man creature of circumstance, surrounded by the frowning barriers of Fate, and compelled to submit to her inflexible decrees. According to the Professor's way of viewing life, "Preparation is the key which unlocks every gate to the city of success."

At the conclusion of Prof. Elliott's address Prof. Patton, principal of this department, in well chosen words presented diplomas to the following who had completed the course in book-keeping: Logan Shockey, J. H. Dunn, W. C. Sebastian, D. C. McGuire, J. D. Barker, Miss Falay Long and Myrtle Johnson.

Certificates of graduation were also given to Misses Ella Kash and Mollie Coldiron, who had finished the difficult course in short-hand and book-keeping.

Saturday evening a packed house enjoyed one of the best declamatory and oratorical contests that has ever been held at H. G. A. In the declamatory contest Hubert Gambill succeeded in carrying off the medal, although he had no mean opponent in Clarence Osborn, whose rendition of "The Ambitious Youth" was very acceptable.

The two orators of the evening were Estill Clark, of Maytown, and Lawrence Gambill, of Caney. Their orations were a credit to the speakers and Hazel Green Academy. Mr. Clark's oration, "Buried Treasure," dealt with the hidden wealth of our mountains, and held the attention of the audience. "Futility of Fame" afforded Mr. Gambill an opportunity for presenting some grand thoughts which he did in a very polished and eloquent manner. However, the judges, Cecil J. Armstrong, of Winchester; Dr. Kash, of Salyerville, and R. L. Bussabarger, after careful deliberation, awarded the prize to Mr. Clark.

The music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Sleet and several of her pupils, Misses Daisy Day, Mary Kilgore, Esther Kreis, Lelah Bowman, Mattie Gevedon and Beulah Thomas. The duet, "Beautiful Moonlight," sung by Misses Sleet and Thomas, won prolonged applause.

On Sunday morning at Pearre Hall, Cecil J. Armstrong, pastor of Winchester Christian Church, delivered the Baccalaureate sermon to the graduates. "The Benefits of Discontent" were beautifully portrayed by this talented orator. Taking for his model the Apostle Paul, who had learned in whatsoever state he was, therein to be content, Mr. Armstrong showed that, to use a paradoxical phrase, Paul was the most discontented man the world has ever known. And yet great benefits came to us from his discontent. The sermon made a deep impression on his hearers. At night Mr. Armstrong preached again to a large audience on "Debt of Strength to Weakness"—a masterly discourse.

The entertainment given by the Primary Department, Monday night, June 1, was truly entertaining. Fully five hundred people packed the chapel to witness this performance of the "little ones." Lack of space prevents us from giving honorable mention to all, but we cannot pass over in silence several numbers on the program. Among these may be included the "Fan Drill and Burlesque," which brought down the house. It had to be repeated to satisfy the audience. Little Mabel Daniel in the "Milk-maid Song," made a very charming milk-maid. "Guests from Whittier's Land" and "Little Lights" were vociferously applauded. On the whole the entertainment was voted to be the most pleasing feature of commencement week. Its success was due largely to the patient and painstaking drilling of the children by Misses Brown and Sleet, who deserve much praise for their efficient training of the children.

Three young ladies contested for the honors of declamation Tuesday night, and the contest was, all things considered, very close and exciting. Miss Maud Taulbee, who declaimed "Philip Barton," showed marked histrionic talent, her gestures, voice and expression all tending to convey a vivid impression of the dramatic art.

Miss Mollie Coldiron surprised her many friends with her clear voice and easy recital of a very difficult piece, "Sir Rupert's Wife." She was followed by Miss Maud Davis in "The Chariot Race," in which the speaker held the close attention of the audience. At the conclusion of Miss Davis' speech the judges—Judge Blair, of West Liberty; R. L. Bussabarger, of Hazel Green, and H. D. Clark, of Mt. Sterling, retired for a short consultation, after which Bro. Clark, in a happy speech awarded the medal to Miss Taulbee, who had been selected as the lucky winner.

The medals for Mr. Hubert Gambill and Mr. Estill Clark having arrived, were also presented.

Wednesday morning, June 3, at 10:30 a.m., a large audience assembled in Pearre Hall to bid the graduates of H. G. A. God-speed as they commenced the real battle of life. The exercises began with a song by the chorus, followed by prayer, after which Mr. Wayne Long, a graduate, delivered a well written oration. Miss Beulah Thomas next read an excellent essay, through which there ran a progressive spirit of independence. The address to the class by H. D. Clark, of Mt. Sterling, on "The True, The Beautiful, The Good," was a strong appeal to the young. Congratulating the young men and women upon the bright future before them, Mr. Clark said: "The world is a great workshop in which you may work out many good, true and beautiful deeds for humanity. Most of you now ask yourselves these two questions: What will I do, and what shall I be? Live then for the True, The Beautiful, and The Good."

Prof. Cord presented diplomas to Wayne Long and Miss Beulah Thomas, and certificates to J. H. Dunn and John S. Cisco.

Medals were also awarded to the following: Mary Roe McLin, Primacy; Nettie Wheeler, Scholarship; Esta Krebs, Department and Attendance (99%). W. O. Mize's watches were won by Jim Tom Jones and Miss Mary Kilgore.

A quartette, composed of Misses Sleet and Thomas, and Messrs. Boggs and Patton, sang a farewell song, after which the audience was dismissed by H. D. Clark.

And then the curtain was rung down on the beautiful scenes that took place at H. G. A. for the year 1903. Prof. Cord and his corps of able assistants deserve the highest praise for the perfect manner in which the exercises were conducted.

LOPPING OFF THE BRANCHES

LOPPING off the branches retards the growth of the hedge; but if it is to be exterminated, it must be cut out by the roots. The same applies to disease. Don't simply cure the symptoms—get at the root of the disease itself; then you need never fear of its appearing again to torment and distress. When troubled with sour stomach, indigestion or dyspepsia—get at the root of the trouble—the liver—and by restoring that to perfect health and renewed activity, relieve yourself of all those distressing symptoms. The medicine that effectually accomplishes this is PLANTERS NUBIAN TEA. It goes directly to the cause of the trouble, and cures speedily and quickly—for all time. All druggists sell it, or we send it postpaid; 25c. a package, 5 packages $1.. Sample and booklet free to any address.
